

Mass Teacher Resources Hosts Donation Day to Restock the MTR Free Store

For Immediate Release

Mass Teacher Resources recently hosted a successful “Donation Day” in preparation for the reopening of the MTR Free Store on January 14th. The event attracted current and former teachers as well as local community members, who brought donations of instructional aides, educational games, and classroom and office supplies directly to the store, located at 400 West Cummings Park in Woburn. These items will be used to replenish the inventory available to teachers who shop at the MTR Free Store.

“It was so heartwarming to see people arriving with carloads of donations to support local teachers served by the MTR Free Store”, comments Executive Director Maureen Willis. “These items are among those most needed by teachers right now. We are grateful to our community for this amazing support”.

Mass Teacher Resources and the MTR Free Store serves full-time classroom teachers at Title 1 public elementary schools in 70 communities in Greater Boston. Our mission is to help teachers at economically disadvantaged schools access the resources needed to create welcoming, inclusive, and safe learning environments for students. Our goal is to help relieve the financial burden many teachers take on to ensure that their students have the tools they need to learn.

We invite our community to join in this important effort with financial support, supply donations, volunteer help and more! Mass Teacher Resources is a 501(c)3 organization, fiscally sponsored by Third Sector New England. Learn more about Mass Teacher Resources and the MTR Free Store online at www.massteacherresources.org

Picture: Former Winchester Selectman Roger Berman delivers a carload of donations to the MTR Free Store.